Fund commentary

The last month of the year continued the pattern of volatility that has been seen pretty much since May, with the MSCI World Index closing at levels very much unchanged from the opening levels for the month, although well off the low point seen during December. Despite numerous meetings, little headway seems to have been made in the task of finding a solution to the precarious debt situation in which many Eurozone countries find themselves. The USA remains of concern, although good corporate earnings and better than expected employment numbers may herald the prospect of a better 2012. Food prices remain on an upward trajectory, which will obviously be negative for inflation, but it is unlikely that this measure will run rampant in the medium term.

The uncertainties emanating from Europe and the USA again led to the "risk off" trade, causing a marked decline in yields on government bonds as investors rushed to this perceived safe haven. The Rand strengthened against the Euro over the month, closing at R10.46/EUR at the end of December 2011 from R10.92/EUR at the end of November 2011.

Short term yields again dropped slightly during the month.

The effective interest yield earned on the fund as at end of the month was 1.30%.

Investments will continue to be concentrated as close to the benchmark as possible, keeping duration at the short end of the mandated range.

DISCLAIMER

The Absa Euro Income Fund is a low to medium risk fund. The maximum initial charge is 1.54% (incl. VAT) of consideration received and will include a maximum of 1.14% (incl. VAT) payable for commissions and incentives. An annual service charge of 0.86% (incl. VAT) against the assets of the fund will be calculated and accrued daily. The annual management fee includes the financial adviser's ongoing fee of 0.17% (incl. VAT). The investor may instruct Absa Fund Managers in writing at any time to stop the ongoing adviser fee. The Absa Euro Income Fund requires a minimum balance of R2000. Collective Investment Schemes in Securities (Unit Trusts) are generally medium to long term investments. The value of participatory interests (units) may go down as well as up and past performance is not necessarily a guide to the future. The investment return is not guaranteed and is dependent on the performance of the underlying instruments. Forward pricing is used. Unit trust prices are calculated on a net asset value basis, which is the total value of all assets in the portfolio including any income accrual and less any permissible deductions from the portfolio. Income is distributed quarterly and any income may be paid out into an account as nominated by the investor or be represented by additional units. All requests for transactions received on or before 16:00 every day will be traded at ruling prices and valued after 16:00 on that day. Unit trusts are traded at ruling prices and can engage in borrowing and scrip lending. This Fund may be closed to new investments. The Fund Manager may borrow up to 10% of the market value of the portfolio to bridge insufficient liquidity. Fluctuations or movements in exchange rates may cause the value of underlying international investments to go up or down. Foreign interest and dividends as well as foreign currency movements affecting capital may be fully taxable under current legislation. Figures quoted are from Morningstar, for the period ending 31/12/2011, using NAV-NAV prices, with income distributions reinvested. This product is not for sale to USA persons. The Total Expense Ratio (TER) is expressed as an annualised percentage of the charges, levies and fees incurred by the portfolio related to its management, for the period from 1 October 2010 to 30 September 2011 against the average NAV of the portfolio over this period. A higher TER does not necessarily imply a poor return, nor does a lower TER imply a good return. The current TER cannot be regarded as an indication of future TER's. Consult the Management Company for details. Absa Fund Managers is a member of the Association for Savings and Investment SA.
