Fund objectives

The fund aims to offer investors a consistent return of 3% above inflation as measured by the SA Consumer Price Index over rolling 36 month periods and not to have a negative return over a rolling 12 month period. The fund invests in shares, income bearing instruments and fixed interest instruments, with major exposure to inflation linked bonds. Shares are limited to a maximum of 20% of the portfolio.

Quarterly fund commentary as at 30 June 2014

The Absa Inflation Beater Fund has returned 8.6% p.a. for the 5 years to 31 March 2014, comfortably ahead of CPI over this period of 5.4% p.a. The Fund has also returned 8.4% p.a. over the past year, which is 1.8 % above CPI for the period.

The All Bond Index returned 2.5% for the quarter, and cash (as measured by the 3 month NCD rate) earned 1.4%.

The FTSE/JSE All Share Index continued to strengthen during the 2nd quarter of 2014, returning 7.2% and hitting a new all-time high of 51 322 on 20 June 2014. The strong performance of the stock market contrasts with the dismal performance of the South African economy. GDP growth in SA for the first quarter of 2014 was a negative 0.6 % (quarter on quarter, seasonally adjusted), with Mining down 24.7% and Manufacturing down 4.4%. The second quarter should show some small improvement from this low base, notwithstanding strikes in major sectors. However the South African Reserve Bank has made further cuts to its growth forecasts, now at 1.7% for 2014 (from 2.1%) and 2.9% for 2015 (from 3.1%).

This pattern of strong equity markets and weak economic news was not unique to South Africa. The S&P 500 Index in the USA rose by 4.7%, notwithstanding USA GDP being revised down sharply from an initial estimate of +0.1% to -2.9% for the first quarter. Bad weather, which disrupted production, construction and shipments, was partly to blame. There is an expectation of a much better 2nd quarter, though this also has been revised down from earlier more optimistic estimates. What has boosted the US stock market has been the unexpected fall in USA bond rates. The US 10 year government bond rate fell from 3.03% at 31 December 2013 to 2.49% at 30 June 2014. Consensus forecasts earlier this year were for the US 10 year government bond rate to rise to above 3.50% in 2014.

In addition to disappointing economic figures, global political tension has risen, with military skirmishes in Ukraine, Syria and Iraq. Stock markets have generally ignored the increase in political tension, with risk, as measured by the USA VIX index, reaching a 7 year low of 10.6 on 18 June 2014.

The South African equity market is fairly expensive, both compared to its own history and other emerging markets. Therefore there must be some risk of a market correction. As long-term investors, we constantly remind ourselves neither to become too flustered nor too excited by short-term fluctuations in share prices. We continue to focus on stocks that are trading at parity (or at a discount) with the market at large, yet have higher earnings and dividend yields, strong business franchises and balance sheets, and better visibility of cash flows, and we continue to keep our equity exposures to companies where we are comfortable with future earnings prospects.

The Absa Inflation Beater Fund continues to be positioned so as to minimize the risk of capital loss, whilst targeting a return in excess of inflation.

DISCLAIMER

The Absa Inflation Beater Fund is a low risk fund. No initial fee is levied though investments through intermediaries could include a maximum of 3.42% (incl. VAT) payable for commissions and incentives. An annual service charge of 1.43% (incl.VAT) against the assets of the Fund will be calculated and accrued daily. Ongoing advice fees may be negotiated to a maximum of 1.14% (incl. VAT) per annum, charged by a way of unit reduction and paid to the Financial Adviser monthly in arrears. This annual advice fee is not part of the normal annual management fee. The Absa Inflation Beater Fund requires a minimum balance of R1000. Collective Investment Schemes in Securities (Unit Trusts) are generally medium to long term investments. The value of participatory interests (units) may go down as well as up and past performance is not necessarily a guide to the future. The investment return is not guaranteed and is dependent on the performance of the underlying instruments. Forward pricing is used. Unit trust prices are calculated on a net asset value basis, which is the total value of all assets in the portfolio including any income accrual and less any permissible deductions from the portfolio. Income is distributed quarterly and any income may be paid out into an account as nominated by the investor or be represented by additional units. All requests for transactions received on or before 16:00 every day will be traded at ruling prices and valued after 16:00 on that day. Unit trusts are traded at ruling prices and can engage in borrowing and scrip lending. This Fund may be closed to new investments. The Fund Manager may borrow up to 10% of the market value of the portfolio to bridge insufficient liquidity. Fluctuations or movements in exchange rates may cause the value of underlying international investments to go up or down. Foreign and/or local interest and dividends as well as foreign currency movements and interest distributions affecting capital may be fully taxable under current legislation. Figures quoted are from Morningstar, for the period ending 31/07/2014, using NAV-NAV prices, with income distributions reinvested and figures quoted are net of fees. This product is not for sale to USA persons. The Total Expense Ratio (TER) is expressed as an annualised percentage of the charges, levies and fees incurred by the portfolio related to its management, for the period from 1 July 2013 to 30 June 2014, against the average NAV of the portfolio over this period. A higher TER does not necessarily imply a poor return, nor does a lower TER imply a good return. The current TER cannot be regarded as an indication of future TER's. Consult the Management Company for details. Absa Fund Managers is a member of the Association for Savings and Investments SA.
